I loved it! I could have spent a great deal longer enjoying myself with this delightful experience, learning about mixing colors, finding a starting point creatively, finding balance, playing with colors, engaging the imagination; feeling free and creative, while producing a unique handmade gift, or a momento capturing the landscape of our environment historically, culturally, aesthetically or simply playfully!! Lost in the pleasure zone. P.S. the cafe where this experience takes place is very cozy and the yumyness on high dial. Also, plenty of window space to enjoy natural lighting while getting your art on lol., don't forget to ask Deepak for the chai tea, the old skool way; trust me, you'll be happy you did!! Go Ed, for creating this experience !!!

It was a very pleasant experience sketching and painting with Ed. He offered helpful guidelines on how to focus and organize, and he created a relaxed and supportive atmosphere. Somehow it was easier to be less self-critical and more willing to just enjoy the process and the results.

I'm currently going for 50 state running goal. So sometimes, I end up doing solo traveling. I don't know about you, but sometimes I have a difficult time finding meaningful things to do. The urban sketching experience was perfect. I work in pharmaceuticals where perfection is critical, and the sketching was about being ok with not being in control. So, I loved it. Experience was fun and chill. I was not blessed with any artistic talent. I had a wonderful time and am considering taking up urban sketching myself :) - to have a personal souvenir from each of my trips. Thank you Ed!

It is a great workshop with Ed. You haven't to be a big artist or illustrator - you can make it by fun. You learn some important things about watercolour, urban sketching and the meeting point is a nice coffee house next to some good graffiti. Ed is very attentive and helpful during the workshop. I can really recommended these 2 hours!!

It was fun! Ed taught the basic, for a person who has no experience in painting, he explained the basic steps needed with an illustration and examples. He also explained a bit about the history of the neighbourhood.
